SOFTBALL GAME

Complainants remain mum

The matter of the Cops vs. the Freaks softball game is now scheduled to come before the Ocean Beach Town Council at a Nov. 19 meeting, according to Town Council president Dick Ridenour.

"Somebody asked me to put it on the agenda. The Town Council has taken a neutral position on the issue," said Ridenour.

Ridenour reported to the Sentinel last week that three businessmen have complained to him about the "extreme cooperation between the unruly element and the Police Department" during the softball game.

Ridenour said the person who asked for the matter to be placed on the Nov. 19 agenda asked to remain anonymous.

Vic Wilson, police officer in charge of the community relations office of Ocean Beach said, "To my knowledge no official complaints have been filed with the department."

HOW ABOUT THAT

By WILFRID DELLQUEST

SECOND THE MOTION: Dr. E. L. Winterer, geologist in charge of one leg of the current oceanographic research expedition into the Pacific, has returned to La Jolla with other San Diego-based scientists, concluding an eight-month, 35,000-mile voyage.

A recently released expedition report concludes that while we and our remote ancestors have been greedily scrounging for food along the ladder of life the ocean bottom with its vast unseen mountain ranges has been going places. Translated into popular parlance, Mother Earth is restless. She is on the move, stretching and yawning and occasionally dancing a jig or two. Again, scientists have raised Earth's watery skirts and peered into places never before seen by man.

In the process, dignified language of science, Dr. Winterer says: "Magnetic surveys of many extinct undersea volcanoes along a long chain of seamounts between Samoa and Honolulu . . . showed that at the time of their eruption they were located as much as 1,500 miles south on the other side of the equator . . . Large-scale northward shifts of the earth's crust beneath the center of the Pacific has since carried the seamounts pickaback to their present location."

The expedition discovered a series of mysterious cracks in the ocean floor off the California coast in water nearly three miles deep. There are six such cracks each up to 50 feet wide and a mile long. "All of us are perplexed as to their origin," says the report.

Already world famous as a center for ocean research, the Scripps Institution of Oceanography by deft use of magnetic surveys, sonar soundings and sophisticated electronic equipment has amassed a body of evidence that may in the future be correlated to such practical problems as weather control, the world's food supply and the cause and predictability of earthquakes.

Police probing Scare at College

Unknown caller who identified himself only as "the Weather" called police Thursday saying bombs had been placed at Mesa College.

Police searched classrooms at 10:21 a.m. for approximately four and 25 minutes. No explosive was found. The investigation, however, continues.

City curbs on cycles postponed

A proposed ordinance aimed at controlling activities of minibike and trail bike riders was continued until Nov. 24 by the City Council during its regular meeting on Thursday.

The continuance was requested by councilmen because a council conference has not been held on the proposal.

Councilmen had requested a conference be set by Deputy Mayor Allen Hitch with representatives of outdoor recreation groups to discuss possible alternatives to the legislation.

The conference has now been scheduled for Nov. 19.

The proposed ordinance would require that operators of any motor vehicle receive written permission from private property owners before riding on the property.

Hand tools sought for reforestation

Pacific Beach Post 5985, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is sponsoring a drive to collect hand tools for replanting work in the burned out sections of San Diego County.

According to Post Auxiliary spokesman Vivian M. Trueb, tools needed include shovels, spades, picks, hoes, rakes and axes. She stated the hand tools are necessary to work on areas inaccessible by heavy equipment.

The burned parts must be reseeded with quick growing grasses, Mrs. Trueb said, in order to protect the land from erosion when the rainy season begins.

Tools in good condition may be left at the VFW Post, 853 Turquoise St., any day after 3 p.m., she said.

Slide program set at PL High

Point Loma High School Business Education Department is to present a continuous 10-minute slide program of its curricula in conjunction with Point Loma High School's open house to be held Monday evening from 7 to 9.

During the open house, all rooms are to be open for viewing of the subject matter used. Teachers are to be in their respective rooms to discuss curricula and answer questions.

The Point Loma High PTA is to hold a bake sale in the cafeteria during the open house.

Peninsula school in experiment

The elementary division of the San Diego Unified School district conducted an orientation for experienced elementary teachers at Silver Gate School Friday.

Visiting teachers were given a tour of the schools and were briefed on the special activities at Silver Gate including resource centers, multigrade classrooms, use of programmed materials, and use of instructional aids and teacher assistants.

Town Council fete inaugurates officers

Ocean Beach Town Council officers were installed Thursday evening at a banquet at the Atlantis Restaurant on Mission Bay.

City Councilman Sam Loftin installed the new slate including Dick Ridenour, president; P. A. "Dusty" Rhodes, first vice president; Mrs. Shirley Pitts, second vice president; Mrs. Lois Parsons, treasurer, and Mrs. Lo Verne Brown, secretary.

SPECIAL GUESTS INCLUDED Congressman Bob Wilson and Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes.

Certificates of outstanding service were awarded to Pauline Sneed, Ray Perine, Glenda Ferris, Spike Webb, Al Vallin and Bob Kinney.

Newly elected members of the board of directors were introduced. They include Mrs. Emma Bumbaugh, Bill Crowley, Barrett J. Foerster, E. C. "Bob" Hull, Robert F. Kenny, Robert J. Miller, P. A. "Dusty" Rhodes and Mrs. Pauline Sneed.

Congressman Wilson spoke briefly and said: "I've been interested in what this Town Council has done, is doing and will do. Ocean Beach means a lot to me. It's been a pleasure to represent this area."

Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes told the audience he would work to get a sign installed in Mission Valley indicating the location of the Ocean Beach freeway.

"We're entitled to a better sign," he said. "I might even tell them to build an off-ramp. If we hang on, we'll get all our problems solved."

PRESIDENT RIDENOUR GAVE A report on the activities of the council over the past year saying: "I would like to point to the family unity that we have all demonstrated in getting along together on the board of directors. No matter what is said, or how it is said, we seem to take it constructively, and if we can do this for another year we can accomplish still more than we have this past year."

RIDENOUR STRESSED A POSITIVE attitude for the year to come. "I would like to see the Town Council stand for more things and against less things. I think if we say let's do this instead of let's not do that we would perhaps accomplish just as much, but the accomplishment would be easier and swifter," he said.

"A successful organization builds a firm foundation from the bricks thrown at it," Ridenour concluded.

Public record ruling on transcript waits

Thursday is the earliest date a court decision will be made on whether or not the transcript of Grand Jury investigations which led to the indictment of eight government officials and a La Jolla businessman will be made public record before the trial begins.

Fourth District Court of Appeals presiding justice Gerald Brown Friday heard a petition for a writ of mandate against the Superior Court but filed the petition for five days to give any opponents to the writ time to file their case.

The appeal for the writ was filed in an attempt to have the court set aside a Superior Court order sealing the 1,320-page transcript and silencing anyone connected with the case. That decision was handed down Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Robert O. Stanforth.

Those indicted following the grand jury investigation include Mayor Frank Curran, councilmen Helen Cobb, Floyd Morrow, Allen Hitch and Mike Schaefer, supervisors Harry Scheidle and Jack Walsh, La Jolla businessmen Robert Covell and Assemblyman Tom Hom.

Charges range from alleged bribery to alleged conspiracy to pervert justice and conspiracy to violate the State Election Code.

Trials for Curran, Mrs.

Cobb, Morrow, Hitch, Schaefer, Scheidle, Covell and Hom have been set for Dec. 7. Walsh is to be tried Nov. 30.

If the writ of mandate is issued, the Superior Court would be ordered to release the transcript as public record. Those portions of the transcript which defendants might feel would prevent a fair trial would be excluded from publication as public record.

A Point Loman has been elected head of the National Management Association.

W. E. "Wes" Magnuson of 833 Temple St., Point Loma, was made head of the 90,000 member national executives' association at the group's annual convention in Chicago Tuesday. He is chairman of the Convair Aerospace craftsmanship program and a 30-year employee of General Dynamics.

Magnuson, an NMA vice president prior to his elevation to the presidency, was national secretary-treasurer during 1963-64, has been a national director for the past two years, and served as president of the former Convair Astronautics Management Club in 1961-62.

The Point Loman was honored as Convair Management Club's "Man of the Year" for 1968.

Collegian 'Who's Who' names girl from area

Jennifer Anne Newcomb, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Newcomb and the late James E. Newcomb, 1071 Guizot St., Ocean Beach, has been named to the 1970-71 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Miss Newcomb is a senior at Temple Buell College in Denver. She is majoring in English and art at the private liberal arts college for women.

She joins a group of students selected from more than 1,000 institutions of higher learning in all fifty states and several foreign countries in South America.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extra curricular activities and future potential.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Dr. William E. Clarke, dean of students at the California Western Campus of the United States International University has been appointed director of Universidad Internacional de Mexico, a new branch of USIU which opened this fall in Mexico City.

DR. ARMAND SELINGER
New dean of students

it was announced by USIU president William C. Rust.

Dr. Armand Selinger, past associate professor of education and chairman of the curriculum committee on the Elliott Campus, is to become dean of students at Cal Western, replacing Clarke.

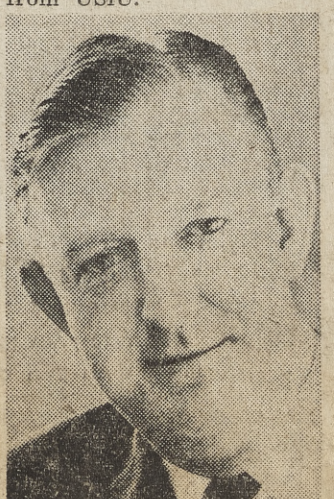

Clarke received his AB degree from Manchester College, his MS from Indiana University, majoring in secondary school administration, and his EdD from Michigan State University, with a major in guidance and student personnel administration.

He was a teacher and counselor in Indiana and Michigan public schools before coming to the San Diego County Department of Education in 1958 and to Cal Western in 1962 as dean of students.

Dr. Selinger has been at USIU for the past four years as associate professor of education and chairman of the Curriculum Committee on the Elliott Campus and as director of the 1970 summer session at the Colorado Alpine campus.

He received his BA and MA degrees from San Diego State College and his PhD from USIU.

HALLOWEEN FUN

Schools plan festivities

Two dances and 22 carnivals are planned in the North Shores area Friday and Saturday by the San Diego Recreation Department, schools and PTA organizations in observance of Halloween.

The program has been considered a model one throughout the nation for constructive celebration of Halloween, Recreation Department spokesmen said.

Carnivals are to feature booths constructed by parents, teachers, students and Recreation Department personnel and are to offer games, baked goods, refreshments, spook houses, white elephant sales and a variety of amusements.

Dances are to be held at the Linda Vista Recreation Center Friday from 7:30 to 11 p.m. and at North Clairemont Recreation Center Saturday from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Carnivals scheduled for Friday include activities at Cadman School, 5:30 to 9 p.m., and Cubberly School, 4:30 to 8 p.m.

Saturday carnivals are slated at the following schools: Alcott, 5-9 p.m.; Andersen, noon to 4 p.m.; Bay Park, 6-9 p.m.; Crown Point, 2-6 p.m.; Farnum, 5-9 p.m.; Jones, 5-8 p.m.; Lafayette, noon to 5 p.m., and Lindbergh, 3-6:30 p.m.

Other Saturday carnivals are to be held at Loma Portal, 5-9 p.m.; Longfellow, 3-8 p.m.; Mission Beach, 5-9 p.m.; Pacific Beach, 4-7:30 p.m.; Riley, 2-5 p.m.; Sequoia, 4-8 p.m.; Sessions, 1-5 p.m.; Sunset View, 5:30-8:30 p.m.; Toler, 4:30-7 p.m.; Wegeforth, 4:30-9 p.m., and Whitman, 3-7:30 p.m.

Choral group seeks members for ensemble

"Chordially Yours" of Pacific Beach, a women's singing ensemble, is to meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Hornblend St., Pacific Beach, to enroll new members interested in choral singing.

Music director of the group is Mrs. Jeanene Stocker of Pacific Beach. The group is open to women throughout the North Shores area. Interested women may call Mrs. Earl Billings at 273-8679 for further information, or come to the meeting and enroll.

ART BUCHWALD

Secret behind Nixon stump

There has been some speculation as to why President Nixon has put his prestige on the line by taking to the campaign trail the last few weeks of an off-year election.

Many professional Nixon-watchers feel the President is taking a great risk by personally getting into the political arena.

If the majority of the candidates he endorses do not do well, the President is the one who will suffer most.

WHAT NOBODY KNOWS

is that the President's decision to leave Washington and hop around the country has a much deeper significance for him than politics.

The secret was revealed by a White House aide who had been personally assigned to leak it to me.

The aide told me, "No one realizes it, but one of the President's deepest disappointments on his trip to Europe was his inability to find anyone in Ireland who was related to him."

"I knew it was a blow," I said, "but I didn't know it meant that much to him."

The aide nodded his head. "It meant a lot. As you know, every Secret Service man assigned to the President was ordered to go out and find a Nixon relative if he had to dig up every dog in Ireland."

"It must have been tough work," I said. "Although the Secret Service failed to produce a Milhous in Ireland who could in any way be related to the President, it did get some very interesting leads."

"ONE WAS THAT A RICHARD Milhous had been driven out of Ireland in 1850 for student heckling. Milhous was said to have come to the United States on a three-masted immigrant schooner called the Bebe Rebozo. But after docking in New York, he disappeared into the melting pot of America—no one is quite sure where."

"That's very interesting," I said. "But what has that got to do with President Nixon's campaigning?"

"When the President came back to the United States, he was determined to find the relatives he couldn't find in Ireland. But he was too embarrassed to admit he was searching for them. So he told his staff to find some excuse for him to get around the country so he could find the descendants of Richard Milhous."

"It sounds like the President has an identification problem," I said.

The staff pointed out that with the elections coming up the President would have a perfect excuse to visit many of the states where Milhous is purported to have settled. These states included Connecticut, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia and California."

"The President really thinks he'll find his relatives in one of those states?" I said.

"HE'S CERTAIN OF IT. While he has been meeting with various Republican candidates and making a few political speeches, the Secret Service has been combing the area, making house-to-house searches, hoping to find a Milhous who might be related to the President."

"How long will the President keep up the search?" Probably until Nov. 2. If he doesn't find any Milhouses by then, he's decided to go back to Washington."

"I hope for his sake he does," I said.

"I do, too," the White House aide said. "There's nothing that gets to you as much as seeing the President going over to a crowd with outstretched hands, looking over the heads of the people, searching, ever searching, for a Milhous he can call his own."

Numerous activities to mark Taft open house

In a democracy, education is everyone's concern. Parental cooperation is, therefore, of great importance if the teacher is to be effective.

American Education Week, held each year in the fall since its beginning in 1921, focuses on students' educational achievements and the partnership between home and school. This year American Education Week is Oct. 25-31.

Taft Junior High School's open house is to be held on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Highlights of open house are to include Taft's orchestra, directed by Tom Intra-vala, and choral group directed by Virginia Winn.

Drama Department headed by Laura Lee O'Connell is to present short skits, and the physical education department, under department chairman Ray Hawkesworth and Shirley Lewis, is to give some athletic demonstrations.

George Elmies' videotape department is to show a continuous presentation of the taping of "Getting to Know the Staff."

Edward H. Anderson, principal, and Mrs. Charles K. Phillips, Taft PTA president, say they look forward to welcoming all parents and members of the community.

The Hospitality committee, comprising Colleen Major, Madge Wolf and Mrs. H. Bonesteel, with eighth grade representatives Carol Bartlett, Mrs. Norman Baldwin and Mrs. Stratton Loucks, is to serve refreshments.

Garage sale to benefit Scout activities

A garage sale to benefit Boy Scout Troop 1200, sponsored by All Saints Lutheran Church, is scheduled today at 3771 Cascade Court, University City, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Jerry Giles, scoutmaster, reports many items, large and small, have been donated and the proceeds will be used to further the activities of the recently formed troop.

Dutch elm tree disease has spread to 30 states and has killed about half of the native elm trees, according to the U. S. Forest Service.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By
DOCTOR JOHN J. FLYNN
Doctor of Chiropractic

Q—My wife tells me that she has nerve pain. I've heard of all kinds of pain but, that's a new one on me. What do you think?

A — It's probably just a question of what she really means. Nerve irritation does cause a pain and a structurally defective spine causes nerve irritation.

Pain from such a condition can cause such diverse health problems as neuralgia, bursitis, neuritis, sciatica, lumbago and vicious headaches. These common conditions have been traced directly to nerve problems. What often happens is that vertebral segment becomes misaligned on the spinal column causing pressure, or pinching that irritates a nerve. Pain is immediately felt in that part of the body supplied by this nerve. Regardless of what your wife calls this pain, the suffering is very real.

She should have an X-ray taken and a Chiropractic examination to determine if a spinal misalignment is causing her problem. If so, she can be helped.

DON'T FEEL RIGHT
Q—I'm over 65 and just never seem to feel right. Not real bad but, not right either. I take pills but they don't seem to help. What can you suggest?

A — It doesn't matter whether you're 65 or 25. I don't think your age is your real problem. One of the most important factors in good health is a perfectly functioning nervous system. If the full, normal transmission of nerve energy is being carried properly through your main nerve trunkline and out along your nerve branch network to all parts of your body then, you should be enjoying good health. But, if this life force is interfered with, your resistance to disease is lowered and a loss of energy is felt. I'd check with your Chiropractor. You may have a spinal misalignment you're unaware of. Once corrected your own built-in restorative powers should take over and rebuild your health and energy.

Doctor Flynn welcomes your letters on health problems. Mail your questions to his office at 6943 Linda Vista Road or telephone to discuss your problem directly with him. Phone 278-2902.
